

Dr. Reeves is a global thought leader in the application of conversational AI to healthcare. Calling on 25 years of experience as an engineer, primary care physician, and digital innovator, he is transforming how life sciences companies engage their patients and HCPs through virtual conversations that scale across brands and markets. His latest scale up, conversationHEALTH, has developed an AI powered SaaS platform that delivers on demand human-like experiences across text, voice, and digital human channels.